

Manure Happens

IT'S A FACT OF LIFE ON THE FARM— an inescapable element of the food production process. But centuries ago, farmers learned that this plentiful resource makes a great natural fertilizer and soil conditioner. Today, farmers still use manure to grow their crops while taking advantage of the latest science and technology to farm cleaner and grow smarter for local streams, rivers, and the Chesapeake Bay. Learn more at mda.maryland.gov/manure

Maryland
Department of Agriculture

