Project Synopsis:

Forgotten Cats trapped, sterilized, recuperated, and released 379 free-roaming cats residing within the Worcester County cities of West Ocean City, Berlin, Ocean Pines, Pocomoke City, Bishopville, Whaleyville, SnowHill, Girdletree, and Stockton. For the past five years, thanks to funding we received through the Maryland Department of Agriculture Spay and Neuter Grant Program, we have maintained a consistent TNVR presence in Worcester County. This grant scope was expanded to include cats from Somerset, Maryland, and surrounding areas.

Project Description:

TNVR 750 cats from West Ocean City, Berlin, Ocean Pines, Pocomoke City, Bishopville, Whaleyville, Snow Hill, Girdletree, and Stockton.

Additionally, the grant area was expanded to include Somerset County and nearby areas.

Summary of Approach:

Our approach is to work with colony caretakers to trap and sterilize entire colonies to ensure zero colony growth.

Accomplishments:

Forgotten Cats successfully completed the grant by performing TNVR on 379 cats from West Ocean City, Berlin, Ocean Pines, Pocomoke City, Bishopville, Whaleyville, Snow Hill, Girdletree, and Stockton, as well as Somerset County. In addition to providing TNVR of 379 cats, Forgotten Cats also provided additional surgeries or medical care to the cats in need. Forgotten Cats did not request additional money for these services.

Lessons Learned:

As we continue to sterilize cats in the designated areas within Worcester County, colony caretakers have accepted that TNVR is the only way to control the free-roaming cat population. As a result, colony caretakers are more inclined to call when there are only a few cats as opposed to hiding and seek out assistance when they are totally overwhelmed
